Court Establishes Speedy Record

10 Cases Come and Go In Just 14 Minutes

City police court hung up a near speed record Saturday, disposing of ten cases in 14 minutes.

Three men, pleading guilty to intoxication charges drew $20 fines in rapid succession. Another with a previous record paid $20 for his freedom.

There was a slight delay when a charge of illegal possession of liquor was misunderstood by one accused, but he returned to the dock within a few minutes to enter a plea of guilty, offer a short explanation of the circumstances, and receive a $20 fine.

Obstructing a police officer who arrested him resulted in a $25 fine for another man, after Const. G. W. Wain gave court the circumstances.

NO PLEA

An alleged bigamist was remanded to the same date, without entering a plea, and a man accused of theft and of being in possession of stolen property was remanded to Monday when defence counsel was not available.

Serg. J. Irvine announced adjourned until Monday morning, just 14 minutes after he had declared it open.

Manslaughter Charge Laid

Thomas Freeman Reid, resident of the former U.S. Airbase settlement in Edmonton, faces a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of 19-year-old Verle Hullman, Sunnybrook, last June 23.

The charge was read to Reid in police court Friday when he appeared for preliminary hearing on an abortion charge which was laid shortly after the girl's death.

It alleges that he caused the woman's death "by using an instrument to procure a miscarriage, thereby committing manslaughter."

The Crown intended to proceed with preliminary hearing on the manslaughter charge. Both cases were adjourned to August 25 after the evidence of several witnesses.

Matt Doucette, Edmonton, also facing two charges of attempting to procure an abortion was remanded to August 26.

Chief witness for the prosecution, a Peace River woman, identified Doucette as the man introduced to her as "Dr. Rogers" at Edmonton during July, 1947.

Official ceremony will take place at the huge Giant-Yellowknife Gold Mines Ltd. at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 24.

Commencement of trolley bus service on 107th Avenue was delayed.

It was hoped that trolley service over the route would be underway this weekend. However, Thomas Perrier, transit system superintendent, said, this is impossible owing to difficulties encountered in stringing trolley wires in the subway at 104 avenue and 101 street.

It is hoped, he said, to have the service in operation by August 29. When the 107th avenue route is put into operation, Highlands house will operate north on 101 street, west on 107 avenue to 124 street, then north again to 118 avenue.

Present 95 street buses will continue their present route west on Jasper, and will operate north on 124 street as far as 108 avenue.

Eastern section of this run will be extended north to 115 avenue, then east to 82 street.

ROYAL BIRTHDAY TODAY

Princess Margaret Rose Becomes of Age at 18

Special to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON—A privilege extended only to royals fell today to Princess Margaret.

Unlike other princesses in the royal family, who do not attain their legal majority until they are 21, princesses and princes of the royal blood become "of age" at 18.

This ruling was introduced so that, in the event of the sudden death of the sovereign, the heir or heiress presumptive would be empowered to take over the duties of monarchy as soon as possible.

REGENCY NECESSARY

Hitherto no successor to the British throne could be crowned until he or she was 21. Meanwhile a regency was necessary for the Crown to function.

Nowadays, however, the period during which a regency would operate is three years less than it was in the past.

Today, then, when Princess Margaret reached her 18th birthday, she also celebrated her "coming out."

At the present time, she is second in the line of succession to the throne, though any children of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh would take precedence.

EXTENDING INTERESTS

During recent months Princess Margaret has been extending her interests to equip herself for public duties. Almost imperceptibly she has been given an engagement list of her own.

Whereas not long ago Princess Margaret invariably appeared at public gatherings only to have separate programs.

It was never intended that the young princess should be given an understanding for her sister, but that she should develop her public interests, and her training and instruction during the last few years have been organized with that end in view.

Though her royal duties have been in the public limelight all her life, it has not "spoiled" her. She is a girl who is as much interested in the humdrum side of things as she is in the more glamorous.

With her royal duties, she has lived in the public limelight all her life, it has not "spoiled" her. She is a girl who is as much interested in the humdrum side of things as she is in the more glamorous.

Princess Margaret's outlook on life is neither naive nor is it the result of being sheltered. She is a girl who is as much interested in the humdrum side of things as she is in the more glamorous.

BETTER FASHION SENSE

Her royal highness has a rather better fashion sense than her sister. For instance, she chooses her shoes more carefully, her choice being made with an eye to appearance as well as to comfort.

While far from being slavish to current conventions in clothes she prefers to follow fashion rather than create them.

In domestic matters Princess Margaret has the reputation of being a young lady with Scottish ancestry. She and Princess Elizabeth took cooking lessons together, under the tutelage of the head chef of Buckingham Palace.

They put their instruction to practical test when they took part in Girl Guide activities in Windsor Great Park, and then both earned the Cook's Badge for proficiency.

Gardens are one of the delights of the young princess, and she is a keen horsewoman. Ever since she was given her own little place, she has been a keen horsewoman.

PIRATE CHANTY COMES TO LIFE

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The admiralty entered it in the record Thursday that it had landed 13 men and a bottle of rum on Dead Man's Chest. This enactment of the old pirate chanty occurred Aug. 2 at a place called Dead Man's Chest in the Virgin Islands.

The admiralty said the landing was made as part of a summer exercise in the Caribbean Sea and West Indies squadron.

the fact that Her Royal Highness is now a public figure in her own right, and it is not just an unusual study for her sister. It will separate the two Princesses for a longer time than ever before.

Princess Elizabeth is to remain in England, where she will be a member of the Council of State set up to function in the King's absence.

WHETTED APPETITE

The South African tour of the Royal Family, early last year, whetted Princess Margaret's appetite for overseas travel, and she is currently studying the material she can find about the great Commonwealth "down under."

Her eighteenth birthday finds her emerging from girlhood into young womanhood. At the same time she is assuming a much greater responsibility for the material she can find about the great Commonwealth "down under."

Jail Death Due To Natural Causes

MONTREAL, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Roult Basset, convicted slayer of a young woman, died in jail today, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Sentenced to be hanged for the strangulation of Nellie Denomme, the 45-year-old lumberjack died in his cell Thursday.

The doctor said Basset had been suffering from cancer.

Y's Men's Chief

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 21.—(AP)—George C. Gould of Temple City, Calif., was elected international president of the Y's Men's Club, an organization of the Young Men's Christian Association, at the closing session yesterday of its 26th annual convention.

SPECIAL INTEREST

Hospitals have the special interest of Her Royal Highness. One institution in particular has her patronage—the Princess Margaret Rose Hospital, Edinburgh. From quite an early age she was also expected to set aside part of her weekly pocket money for charity.

And today more than thirty benevolent organizations figure on her regular donation list.

She is patron of the Union of Girls' Schools for Social Service, a branch of the Royal Albert School and the Scottish Children's League, and president of the Dr. Barnardo's Helpers' League.

Her time during the last few months has been increasingly taken up with the preparations for her forthcoming visit to Australia and New Zealand, with the King and Queen. The tour will emphasize the Commonwealth link.

CCF Farm Planks Adopted at Meet

Eight Sections of Sweeping Program Approved Yesterday

By John Leblanc

WINNIPEG, Aug. 21.—(CP)—Already embarked on several major socialist policies, the CCF national convention in its closing session today got down to final study of its "first-term" program of socialization.

Four for consideration—and virtually certain to be written into the platform—were planks calling for nationalization of steel industries and the fuel industries such as gas, oil, and electricity. That "socialization" would take the form either of state or co-operative ownership.

Planks adopted in the last two days included public ownership of banks and of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The party, by order of the convention, is committing to putting the socialized measures into effect in its first term a federal government.

FARM MEASURES

Public or co-operative ownership of industries affecting agriculture also would be a CCF commitment under the farm plank adopted yesterday. Industries to be socialized in this way would take the form of farm machinery and fertilizer and the meat-packing business.

The convention adopted eight sections of its sweeping farm plank including those calling for guaranteed farm prices, order marketing and general crop insurance.

More sections of the farm program were being dealt with today. These include proposals for farm extension, of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act, housing and social services for rural areas, and extension of government to search.

OTHER MAIN POINTS

As already adopted, other chief points in the farm program include: 1. Guaranteed prices for farmers. 2. A national setting act. 3. Adoption of "ever-normal" grain prices.

After hearing the national of the convention, which has 150 delegates—adopted the RFP endorsement with only two dissenters.

The convention took the first step of any Canadian party to move into the political arena, Newfoundland, expected to be the 10th Canadian province next year.

The national council—a 40-man body representing all provinces—was authorized to go ahead with setting up the political headquarters.

This ran head-on into the national council proposal it was approved by several Manitoba and British Columbia dissidents but condemned by a national council planks headed by Mr. Coldwell, and other delegates.

David Lewis, national secretary, said the opposition to the U.S. administration of RFP was being formed by those who did not want to see the voice of international affairs to call for administration of RFP by the United Nations.

Printers' Training Rules Criticized

CALGARY, Aug. 20.—(CP)—Criticism was directed yesterday of the Alberta government regulations pertaining to apprenticeship training in weekly newspaper shops.

The annual convention of the Alberta section of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association heard the complaint and will discuss possible remedies today.

One delegate said it was necessary for the trade to train its own employees—otherwise they were impossible to retain. He advocated approaching the government apprenticeship board seeking permission to train apprentices in shops.

Another delegate, one of about 100 attending, said the Red Deer apprentice board had only one apprentice coming to newspapers last year to learn how older equipment was handled.

fiers, the convention—which has 150 delegates—adopted the RFP endorsement with only two dissenters.

Big Industrial Expansion Seen

CALGARY, Aug. 21.—(CP)—A great industrial and business expansion in Alberta and an important part in that expansion for provincial weekly newspapers was forecast yesterday by William Drayner, editor of the Wetaskiwin Free Press.

The president of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association was addressing the annual convention.

Mr. Drayner said the weekly editor must look to the future, remembering his major role in influencing the attitude of the public towards changes bound to come. Broad aspects rather than local interests must be considered.

The division's annual report was submitted by Secretary Charles Clarke of the High River Times who said membership was holding steady at 38 newspapers. The executive and committees had experience and the two-day convention ends today.

ORPHAN LAND

The story has been told of a student who started what he called his "Orphan Bank"—a repository for the occasional nickels, dimes, and quarters he could spare. Helping orphans was this young man's way of thanking God for the blessings of a good home, for the love and devotion of two fine parents.

How many people give practical thought to the countless number of children who have lost one or both parents and have become dependent upon public or private institutions for their care and support? How many ever visit Orphan Land to bring a little joy to innocent ones doomed to begin life under the most dreadful of all handicaps—the lack of a mother's love, the companionship of an understanding father?

Orphans are children who, by the precepts of divine law, have a prior claim on the compassion and self-sacrifice of the community. Too often, however, they are the objects only of a cold and impersonal charity. Little hearts crave in vain for a hug of pure love, for a smile that is a gift of God's own tenderness. Frightened eyes too often look upon a world where they have no place, too indifferent to remember that somewhere are children who desperately need to feel they have a place in someone's heart.

Who is so busy that he cannot spare a little time to visit the orphanage in his community? Who cannot spare the price of a gift—a box of candy, a book, a toy, anything that will bring a smile of happiness to some lonely wayward? What prevents parents with enough time on their hands from making regular visits to Orphan Land, becoming ambassadors of love and good-will from the outside world?

Many of us feel occasional pangs of conscience thinking how little we have done—if anything—for the parentless or abandoned. If more people began to think about Orphan Land, more laughter would be infused into the precise, ordered routine that goes on behind its lonely walls.

United Church Group Will Discuss Atoms

TORONTO, August 21.—When the Thirteenth General Council of the United Church of Canada meets in Vancouver in September, one of the most important reports to be presented to the Council is a report on the Church and International Affairs.

For two years a committee under the chairmanship of Henry Langford, of Toronto, has been studying this topic.

Part of their report relates to the church and the atom of atomic power. Discussing controls for atomic power, the report reads in part: "The situation resulting from fundamental disagreement on a method of dealing with a threat to the survival of all concerned, is a commentary both on the complexity of social problems and on the selfishness and stupidity of men."

"It is also a call for intellectual and moral leadership. A serious factor is the common man's fear of the atom, and the other wayward of mass destruction, and his feelings of helplessness and frustration which produce in turn a tendency to panic or fatalistic indifference."

FEAR OF WAR
"Fear of war is translated into hostility to the potential enemy, heightening the tension and making more likely the realization of what is feared."

The report continues: "The world church has a unique opportunity to lead."

Visit Europe

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Four churches have gone abroad for six weeks, as guests of the Department of War to visit U.S. Army chaplains in the European theater. Most of the time will be spent in Germany, but some members of the group will also attend the First Assembly of the World Council of Churches at Amsterdam, Holland.

Noting that a study of 300 men recently admitted to prison shows two-thirds of them coming from homes in which religion was totally unknown, the chaplain directed that diagnosis of their failure to achieve harmonious living relationships, pointing directly to a lack of understanding of the fundamental laws of God and the principles of righteousness.

Met Opera Closing Bow to Thousands

Radio Audiences Throughout Continent Will Miss Broadcast

By Dick Sherbanuk

Cancellation of the Metropolitan Opera's 1948-49 season has come as a jolt to the thousands of North American who look forward to winter Saturday afternoon at their radio to hear the Met's weekly broadcast.

The Met's closing is just another result of the mounting costs which are playing every phase of life. Late in July, Metropolitan Opera directors announced that the Met had ended its fiscal year with a deficit of $250,000. Patronage of the opera was not surprisingly and distinctly on the decline. The company had shown a small profit for each year since 1934.

Yet last season was outwardly successful. Attendance was up and the ledger showed increase of $183,000 in receipts over the previous season. The road tour had been extended into a lucrative year on the Pacific coast.

PAYROLL UP
Directors announced that opera costs had been increased to $250,000. The payroll increase was $55,000. New productions cost $22,000 more than the previous season. The opera Guild and other arts organizations have been asked to contribute to the deficit.

At the end of July, Met directors had expressed hope that solution could be found to existing problems.

12 UNIONS
But before any solution was announced, the company cancelled next winter's run because, it said, "the budget for union work was too large to be met."

"This business of long drawn-out negotiations with the unions has been going on every year," said an opera association spokesman.

Seven Students Pass Exams

Results of music examinations taken by Edmonton and district students here in June from McGill Conservatoire of Music, Montreal, have been announced by Mrs. G. J. Walker, honorary secretary. Practical violin grade 10, Lawrence H. Lawrence, 14, and violin grade 11, David Middleton, 16, both of the Conservatoire, were successful. Florence Boltman, 14, and eighth grade, Elvin Gross, 13, both of the Conservatoire, were successful. Also successful were Norma Scott, 14, and Patricia Gillingham, 14, both of the Conservatoire. Examiner was R. de Tupper, vice-president of the Conservatoire.

Violin students were accompanied by Miss Alice LaPlante.

Many Consuls Given Ouster

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—An analysis of the United States state department today shows Jacob Lomakin is only one of several foreign consuls who have been asked to get out of the United States.

In fact, the records show that the American government has been asked to remove the receiving as well as the sending of the game of the United States. State department officials said Lomakin is only one of several foreign consuls who have been asked to get out of the United States.

One of the most unusual cases occurred in 1931. The United States cancelled credentials of a Yugoslavian consul who had been asked to remove the receiving as well as the sending of the game of the United States.

Another consul who was asked to get out of the United States was a Yugoslavian consul who had been asked to remove the receiving as well as the sending of the game of the United States.

'Wrestlers Are People'—Hart

Regardless of what Westbrook Pegler and Dan Parker have written over the years Stu Hart is emphatic that wrestlers really are people.

The one-time lieutenant with Edmondson Eskimos when this town had a representative in the Western Conference is a "rusher" by trade these times. Since he got into the game professionally two or three years ago he has travelled the highways and byways on both sides of the international border to the tune of 100,000 miles or so.

"I've wrestled in top spots like St. Nicholas Arena in New York," he points out. "Then again I know what it's like to do one night stands in such outposts as Kind, Oklahoma, and Idaho Falls."

A dozen or so years back the good-looking Hart was a familiar figure among the local YMCA. He enjoyed considerable success in amateur ranks, winning the dominion lightweight crown at Vancouver in 1940.

"I hitch-hiked back home that time," he says with a grin. "Nowadays he has his own car and when that won't do he travels Pullman style."

Plenty of folks who have a hard time keeping themselves in legs and calves often get down to feeling sorry for wrestlers.

"What a dumb cluck Joe Blow turned out to be," they say condescendingly. "He's a wrestler, of all things."

Five G's—Easy
They might better save their scorn, according to Hart. "Even a poor fellow can make an upward of $3,000 a year in any kind of decent territory," he maintains.

Fellowies like Frank Sexton, "Whipper" Watson, "Georgious" George and their ilk have annual incomes ranging from fifty to one hundred thousand dollars. Within five years Hart ("and I don't pretend to be a good wrestler") hopes to have made enough to own his own home and be financially healthy enough to hop into a lucrative business.

That home angle looms daily more important in Hart's scheme of things. Last New Year's eve he married Helen Smith, a Long Island girl. Sometime in November Mr. and Mrs. Hart expect an occupant for the nursery.

If the little networker is a boy his Pop will follow in two or three days he hankers to be in father's footsteps.

"Of all sports wrestling is the greatest body-builder, the greatest conditioner," Hart maintains. "Not one of us listening audience offered an objection to this high rating."

After all the man himself is a pretty good ad.

What! Again?
Hart has had frequent billing on Calgary mat cards over the past few months. Taking advantage of the chance for a holiday he plans to stick around Edmonton for another 10 days or so.

There's seemingly a good chance that Al Oeming, aided and abetted by Larry Tillman, the Oklahoma who has put the game over in Calgary in a way, will shortly attempt the umpteenth revival of wrestling in Edmonton.

At least Oeming threatens to. What's more he says it's the real McCoy this time.

Should the grunt and groan fraternity agree to make part of cell of the Alberta capital it's pretty certain that Hart will crank one of the opening cards. He has an agreement with an American promoter requiring his services on a New England circuit later in the year.

"But I'm available for a time," he promises.

Hart—by way of proving that the "rasslers" really play for keeps—would you believe that he's all marked up after his relatively short apprentice period.

The evidence is sketchy. He's been in the ring for the inevitable cauliflower ears he's still the same photogenic gent he was when easily the No. 1 Nature Boy around Kingway Park a few years ago.

ee Williams' Air Cadet to Miss Today's Feature

By Stan Mohr (Bulletin Sports Editor)
One of the most regrettable, and frequently irritable, features about racing is the common practice of taking a horse out of a race because "conditions"—so called—are not considered exactly suitable.

For instance Joe Cadet will not be sent postwards in the Continental handicap feature attraction on Saturday's card that closes out racing for the season in Edmonton.

The reason—and it's perfectly justifiable in the eyes of racing men—is that Judge Schilling, in awarding weights, asked the star of Lee Williams' stable to back 130 pounds.

Such a heavy a package, trainer Earl Robertson said quite frankly Friday. "There's no way of having a horse, particularly one that already has won three races this season, besides being no worse than three at anything."

As a consequence local racing fans and there aren't any better anywhere—will have to forego a look at Air Cadet and Leo Lady looking at each other on a race track. This is assuming that the racing strip doesn't come in for a dreary before post time Saturday.

Air Cadet, looked up with Leo's Lady in the Speed to Spare cup a week ago and came off second best. However it was agreed that the horse would be sent postwards in the hard-knocking main to Air Cadet. Since that time training has been intensive and Cadet has been especially impressive while stopping Bert, Alford and Earl.

TO STAY IN BARN
With Air Cadet doing pretty well in the third race Friday he will be heavily favored today to maintain her record of seven victories in the first race in the five mile stakes.

Of course this business of making a horse the grandstand—like they say—is the real lever in the sport of Kings.

Friday's big George general favorite as the class of the two-year-olds this season, was asked to top the 120 pounds in the third race. Despite the impact in the 7-10 good thing. However, when it was all over Big George had been beaten in two places. Family shares (135 paid) back $5.75 in winning the race by six lengths and Max (118) was next—back to the pool over Big George.

Ministry of $110 since 1944 and Wingway combined for a daily double of $115.50. The first race was a surprisingly good job of riding in waking up Winslow Girl to a winning in the first.

Bratston was an easy winner of the third, largely because the son of Camelot had been in the race a safe faster than anything else in the race. Lightly weighted Fin in the sixth and Leo Lady in the fourth. Lillian B edged Red Man in the sixth and Leo Lady in the fourth. Lillian B edged Red Man in the sixth and Leo Lady in the fourth.

Wrestling Returns Here September 6
It appears likely that professional wrestling will return to a regular in Edmonton early next month. The word coming from Al Oeming, an Edmonton promoter who has been in the business since the summer.

Oeming has secured the new lock-up pavilion at the Exhibition Grounds for an arena, and is making his first card for September 6.

The young promoter will secure most of his "bops" through Larry Tillman, the Calgary wrestling czar who was recently reported to be interested in Edmonton as a fight town.

Oeming did not announce who would appear in the September 6 attraction, but Edmonton's Stu Hart was reportedly reported to be in the Canadian Wrestling Association's amateur champion and released considerable grappling success on the Atlantic seaboard.

MASTER OF MASSAGE is Charles Jefferis, local steam-bath attendant and masseur. One of Edmonton's leading exponents of "rub or tub for health" school, he kneads muscles all day long at a Jasper Avenue steam shop. In business only three years, Jefferis has a large clientele, which boasts strongly the benefits of muscle manipulation.

He's Strictly a Musclemann Yet He Makes a Living

By Harold Delany

Charles Jefferis is often called "Musclemann" by his customers and steam-bath attendants. It is a title he has earned through his skill in manipulating muscles. He performs his muscle manipulations at a Jasper Avenue steam bath, where for less than two dollars a creaking customer can be revitalized by what Jefferis describes as the "complete works."

This radical-sounding, almost treatment for disabled people, is actually nothing more than the Turkish bath, which consists of a thorough steaming, followed by an invigorating soap and salt rub. Jefferis claims, with just the hint of a smile, that a person who has to be carried in, can run out like a youngster after a session of steaming and pounding. It did happen once, however.

"It's true," he says. "One night last year, a young man, who obviously had taken more than several over the eight came into the steam-bath with four friends who were supporting him by his arms and legs."

After he had been rubbed, rubbed and scrubbed for two hours, he was able to navigate home, albeit wearily, under his own power.

"Summer is the busiest time of the year for the steam and rub companies, but things really get busy when the farmers have finished the harvest, and holidays are back from camp."

Last fall, just after harvest time, Jefferis managed limbs and torsos for a six-hour non-stop period. He doesn't recall, offhand, just how many customers he manipulated, but he calculates that it takes him 15 minutes for ordinary rubs, and one-half-hour for massaging a person with rheumatism.

Three most popular massages, Jefferis reports, are the winter-green, alcohol, and the oil and ash.

He literally lives with his work day and night—a bachelor, he has living quarters on the premises.

A former airport maintenance man, Jefferis was born in Lloydminster 27 years ago and has been steam bath attendant since 1940. There is no doubt in his mind as to which profession he prefers.

"I would be rather manipulative muscles," he says, "than the spare parts of an airplane."

Home Gardens Show Results Of Time, Effort

Edmonton gardens are a riot of color and perfume as flower-time reaches its peak.

Adequate rains, rich soil, bright sunshine and the tender care of garden lovers have banded together to produce a bumper crop of gladioli, asters, daisies, zinnias, hollyhocks, and scores of other varieties.

Horticulture show held in the city market this week proved that Edmonton gardeners have a lot of what it takes to produce beautiful flowers in this brief summer season.

Gladioli have flowered earlier this year than for many seasons and hundreds of near-perfect blooms were entered in the show.

FABULOUS FLOWERS WIN FAIR LADY PRIZES GALORE IN HORTICULTURE SHOW

MOTHER NATURE did a mighty fine job with the assistance of Mrs. Roy Miller when she turned out this bounteous array of flowers. Flowers that bloom in the spring have nothing on flowers that bloom in the mature days of summer . . . and these huge blossoms are proof enough. Mrs. Miller and the well-known Mrs. James A. McAffee carried away most of the prizes awarded by the Horticulture society at the show this year. Mammoth gladioli, velvety pansies, huge, sprightly daisies and a wealth of other plant varieties grow in colorful profusion in Mrs. Miller's attractive garden.

PRETTY MAID IN A SUNNY GARDEN OF FLOWERS

EVEN FLOWER-LOVERS would have a hard time trying to make up their mind which is prettier . . . Dark-haired Mary Linget or the huge bouquet of flowers she carries in her arms. Mary has stopped at the garden of Ralph Kubiak, 1002 12 avenue, to admire the prize-winning flowers. The huge bright and pastel-colored gladioli are almost head high and a riot of bloom.

FLOWERLAND is the land for little people and even little boys like Roddy McElroy pick a peck of posies whenever the posies are present. This is a solemn occasion when young Roddy gives the biggest and bestest flower of all to his pretty little girl friend, Shannon Delaney. Their quiet-time dollars came straight from Roddy's mother's garden.

EDDIE'S KNIFE

EDDIE WAFF, who lives just across from Grandma Pettigob's house, doesn't know that the Teenie Weenie village is just a short distance from his home. But the Teenie Weenies know a great deal about Eddie. They know that Eddie is a Cub Scout and that he is kind to birds and squirrels. They know that he does odd jobs for Grandma Pettigob when she has rheumatism and that he wipes dishes for his mother without too much complaint. The Teenie Weenies like Eddie and that's why they have gone to considerable trouble several times to help him.

Not long ago Eddie lost his Scout knife down by the creek. The Sailor found it and he knew it was Eddie's knife because the Teenie Weenies had found it once before when it was lost. The Sailor reported the lost knife to the General, who told several of the Teenie Weenie men to drag the knife up to Eddie's house so he could find it.

"Can we use the cart?" asked the lazy Dunce.

"We are using the cart today in the garden. You know you men can easily drag that knife," answered the General.

"SAY!" exclaimed the Dunce. "Did you ever try draggin' a Scout knife? It's heavy. Gee whillikers, that's a hard job!"

"The cart wouldn't be any help," put in the Turk. "The grass is so thick down around the knife, we'd have to build a road to get the cart in there."

"We might hire one of the respectable mice to drag that big knife out," suggested the Dunce.

The TEENIE WEEENIES

"They promised to help us any time we need them." "That would be all right if you'd carry the mouse's tail," said the Turk.

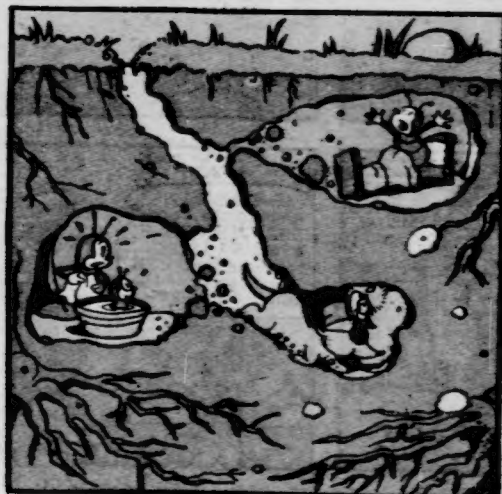

A respectable mouse is a mighty good work animal but unfortunately it has a single track mind and it continually forgets to keep its long tail from being run over by what it is pulling. So it is necessary for one of the Teenie Weenies to carry its tail in order to avoid an accident. The Dunce didn't like the job of tail-bearer, but he liked the job of dragging the knife still less. So he reluctantly agreed to carry the tail and the mouse was brought to the village and put into a stout set of frogskin harness.

It didn't take long to drag the knife up to the lane, but there the men were forced to wait a few minutes under a burdock leaf until a strange cat had passed by. They left the knife in plain sight near the kitchen steps. Eddie found it there that afternoon when he came home from school.
